

Campton Lower school are pleased to announce that Miss Davenport who teaches Badgers class (Year4) has won a Silver Teaching Award in the National Pearson Teaching Awards 2016. Miss Davenport was presented the award by the Headteacher and Local MP Nadine Dorries, at an assembly on the 17th June which was attended by representatives from across the community and a school of very excited children.

Miss Davenport was selected for the award from thousands of nominations received by the Pearson Teaching Awards. She will now join fellow Silver Award winners at the House of Commons for tea in late June, followed by the UK final which will be held at a glittering celebration, amongst a variety of celebrities at London's Guildhall in October, where a Gold Plato Award winner will be chosen from the 5 Silver Award winners in the category 'Best Primary Teacher'. The 2016 ceremony, is titled "Britain's Classroom Heroes", and will be filmed and broadcast by the BBC as a showcase of excellence in education.

All the staff and children at Campton want to wish her the best of luck, as she really is a 'Classroom Hero'.
